HONGKONS, MAY 13TH. 889. ~ THE Chinese Extradition Bill, which was read a first time at the last meeting of the Legislative Council, is a measure which demands the most careful consideration. While on the one hand it is equally impossible and undesirable to allow the colony to become a secure refuge for fugitives from Chinese justice, on the other hand it is no less important that the sorrender of persons applied for by the Chinese Government should $24,297, being an increase of $5,846 on the be hedged about by sufficient safeguards and restrictions to prevent the facilities for extradition being used by unscrupulous persons for the purpose of extorting money from or otherwise terrorising the peaceable Chinese residents of this colony. The case of the notorious LEE LUM KWAI occurred not so for this port. long ago that its lesson has been forgotten. If the Bill now proposed had been law in Kwar would have succeeded in exterting from his intended victims the squeeze of $5,000 he attempted to lavy, sacrificing one with German mails dated Berlin the 16th ult or more of them to prosecution in the Chi- left Singapore at 7 a.m. on Saturday for thi nese Courts on suborned evidence if that port. course should have become necessary in the pursuit of his nefarious design. Bill provides that "depositions or statements on oath or affirmations taken in China and copies thereof shall if duly authenticated be received in evidence in proceedings under this Ordinance." It is further provided that such-depositions, statements, or affirms. tions, and copies thereof, shall be dermed to this Ordinance if they purport to be certified under the hand of the Judge, Magistrate, or Officer before whom they were taken, to be the original depositions, statements, or affirmstions, or to be true copies thereof, as the case may require, and if they are scaled with the official seal of some Officer of State in China." Now there can be little doubt that LEE LUM Kwarcould have produced reams of such documents, and if the clause above quoted passes into law it will afford a ready means of turning on the screw when it is desired to aqueeze Chinese residents of the colony. In LEE Lum Kwar's case his intended victims actually offered him a substantial sum, two or three hundred dollars, to cease his persecution, and had he been content to accept this amount the matter would probably never have become public. Under the new Ordinance, it would only be necessary for a man of LEE LUM KWAI'S stamp, in concert with an unscrupulous mandarin, to get together a lot of documents purporting to be depositions, have them sealed, and then tell members were present. The gold medal was Rules of H.B.M. Supreme and other Courts the person intended to be squeezed that these documents would be sent to the Government of Hongkong if black mail were not paid before a certain day. The squeeze would most probably be paid. It is true the accused would have the opportunity of making his defence before the Magistrate, but he would have no opportunity of crossexamining the witnesses for the prosecution, and almost the only effective way of meetthe case against him would be to prove bewond all possibility of doubt an alibi. charge would naturally fix the date of the commission of the alleged crime at a time when the accused either had not yet come to Hongkong or had returned to China on a visit. so that to prove an alibi which would offectually destroy the prima facie case made against him would be exceedingly difficult. In the case of European powers the administration of justice is recognised as pure, and Mesers. The mistake appears to have arisen from our contemporary overlooking the first part of the section, or being ignorant of the fact tha persons accused of an indictable offence committed within the Colony are entitled to make their defence before the Magistrate if they are so advised. Some one has been writing to Truth about missions in China. Here is what Mr. Labouchere says:—As a valuable contribution to the great missionary question, I extract the following from a very instructive account of European missions in China, sent to me by a gentleman who has spent many years in that country :-

The Roman Catholic missionaries live and die amongst the people with whom they cast in their lot adopting the native style of dress (pigtail included) and undergoing considerable privations as regards their food, social surroundings, &c. I was once told by Spanish pricets in Honekong that on the arrival of a missionery from their headquarters in Europe his first task was to acquire the vernscular; his second, to proceed to the sphere of action selected for him; and his third to make his ministry self-supporting. The result was that in about twelve months he was sufficiently convergent with the language to justify his undertaking the duties allotted to him ; or the next year he would cost about £20 all told after that he would not only free the society from expense, but he would actually be a source of revenue sending from his flock contributions in aid of the cause. It must not be supposed for a moment that such missionaries are an inferior class; on the contrary they are often men of great matural ability and Now that is all very well. TYPHOON SEAMANSHIP

The escape of H.M.S. Callione from Samoa during the typhoon which proved so destructive has naturally been the subject of a question in Parliament. This question was designed to bring out the information whether the escape construction or to superior seamonship. We have "ont and run" in the face of that which he saw clearly was setting into Samoa. To rely upon inchors in such circumstances is sheer fatuity: safety oxists only in the open sea, and therefore it conceivable that the Admiralty owe the safety the Callions to the presonce of mind. thought, and promptitude of her captain. writer remembers once being "caught" lying at Aspinwall. A tornado came up almost without notice, but fortunately steam was up at the time, and we put to sea, obtaining shelter some leagues down the coast. Her Majesty's ship Rosario lost her topgallant masts, although she also got out in the nick of time. Meanwhile the storm wrecked everything that remained behind, besides breaking from their moorings and destroying the wooden quays. In such places as the Gulf of Aden there is no salvation from a cyclone which sets in shore, but to cut and run. We suspect H.M.S. Callions has taught both Germany and the United States a lesson in typhoon seamanship.—Broad Arrow.
